Playful EMDR with Children and their Caregivers

Parents and Caregivers as
"Co-Therapists" in Processing

Cost: $349

Join Annie Monaco and Ann Beckley-Forest of Playful EMDR in Boulder for our new Intermediate level course for child and teen therapists integrating EMDR with the therapeutic powers of play.

In this specialty training at the intermediate/advanced level, the focus will be on how to incorporate parents in the therapy room as essential partners to resolve traumatic memories. Attachment wounds and caregivers' mis-attuned responses to adversity are a common source of the kinds of traumatic material that can be hard to heal. We will describe (and even show via video clips) sessions which highlight attachment repair-focused play therapy and EMDR, and play-based dissociation interventions to manage challenges for trauma-exposed children and their parents and caregivers.

Prerequisite: Completion of EMDR basic training; Prior experience of EMDR with children/teens a plus

15 CEs total
15 EMDRIA CEs
11 Play Therapy CEs

Some key features

- Practice interview scripts to assess for attachment challenges, dissociation and psychoeducation with caregivers in complex cases.
- Gestalt play therapy inspired interventions for preparation phase and attachment interweaves.
 - Engage caregivers in helping to repair the harm of attachment wounds.
 - Support EMDR therapy with children throughout all eight phases and how to seamlessly integrate EMDR with the approaches you already use.
 - Workshop will include video clips, transcripts and opportunities to practice interventions.
- Smaller, in-person training means more time for your case related questions and brainstorming with Ann and Annie.

Schedule

Tuesday 9/24

12:30 - 4:30pm (One 30 min break)

Wednesday 9/25

8:30am - 4:30pm (Two 15 min breaks and one hour for lunch)

Thursday 9/26

8:30am - 4:30pm (One 15 min break, one hour lunch and end early)

Objectives

- Apply an in-depth attachment history of caregivers to assess for early attachment wounds and disruptions and the impact on their parenting.
- Describe an in-depth attachment history of the child to identify attachment wounds.
- Describe play-based animal archetypes to identify 8 adaptation strategies children use to cope with complex trauma and describe ways to employ these in the playroom as part of an extended preparation phase.
- Demonstrate how to use dissociation theory to educate parents about problematic behaviors.
- Demonstrate parent psychoeducation and coaching to support their highly dissociative children and engage hostile parts in sessions.
- Describe the EMDR storytelling approach and 3 examples of cases where it is used with preverbal trauma, medical trauma and attachment wounds and structures caregivers as a resource.
- Explain the EMDR storytelling method integrated with play therapy as an invitation to processing for children with a narrow window of tolerance for trauma work.
- Describe a targeting approach to the Phase 3 EMDR Assessment phase within the context of the child's post-traumatic play and symptoms.
- Describe 2 strategies to work effectively in play therapy with angry and hostile self-states to resolve traumatic experiences and reduce violent behaviors.
- Describe an example of using a family play therapy activity prescriptively to help caregivers recognize and respond to the child's needs for regulation and grounding.
- Describe 3 important considerations in integrating EMDR and play therapy in support of processing targets relating to racism, oppression and microaggressions in a case example of an adoptive family.
